Persecuted Church:

Turkmenistan - Turkmenistan is a profoundly restricted country in which Christian worship is limited to churches that are part of government-sanctioned denominations. Despite the restrictions, the gospel is proclaimed regularly through media and personal testimonies. Churches meet openly, but they are closely monitored. Christians' homes may be raided at any time by authorities searching for Christian literature. Some families worship together in secret. If the government learns of a Turkmen becoming a Christian, the new believer faces immediate harassment and pressure. It is also difficult for believers to travel outside the country for Christian training or encouragement

- Pray that Christians will continue to gather despite severe restrictions on Christian worship.
- Authorities often search believers' homes for Christian literature. Pray for the freedom to study God's Word.
- The Turkmen-language Bible is illegal in Turkmenistan. Pray that Christians will have access to it.
- A number of Turkmen pastors have been imprisoned for their ministry work. Pray for the pastors and their families.
- Pray for the wisdom of Turkmen who convert from Islam to Christianity. They face pressure and harassment.
